

Star Award

Modesty

A person who can say nice things about other people without boasting of their own ability is a modest person. Its very boring if someone just goes on and on about themselves.

Do you know someone who just goes on and on about themselves? Do they tell you how good they are at things? Isn't boring? Do you do this?

.....

Never be afraid to show that you can do something well, but maybe don't talk about your skills too much?

.....

Black belts are VERY good at their art, would it be right for them to tell other people this ALL of the time?

.....

Task - This month I would like you to watch out for people who talk about themselves an awful lot. Then notice how boring it is and do your best not to do the same thing.

Name.....
Date.....
Parent Signature
Teacher signature.....

AWESOME